GOAL IS MORE THAN REACHED IN CAMPAIGN FOR NEW MEMBERS

Chamber of Commerce Will have Almost Five Hundred Members To Start With

DRIVE ENDED AT NOON TODAY

The campaign for Charleroi's new Chamber of Commerce closed at noon today with the usual luncheon at the Elks' Club, when Majors and team Captains made their final report. The returns showed splendid results with 56 applications and these with the 446 applications reported up to Thursday noon, made a total of 502 certainly an imposing number. In this number, however, there may be some duplications, but on the other hand there are quite a number of prospective members who will likely sign up within the next few days, so that the total number of members of the new Chamber will be near that figure.

In closing his stay with Charleroi Mr. Allspach, the manager took occasion to return the thanks of himself and co-workers for the splendid spirit of co-operation with which they had been met, on the part of the people, the press, the management of Turner Hall, the ministers of the city and particularly did he stress the obligation which he felt toward the Elks' Club for the courtesy and consideration the management of that institution had shown. The speaker took occasion to say that you could travel a long way and visit many larger cities and not find anything as fine and well appointed as the Elks' Club of Charleroi.

Roy I. Carson on behalf of the executive committee, replied to the remarks of Mr. Allspach, and said that the American City Bureau and its field workers had shown Charleroi the way to form a great organization which will have much to do with the civic betterment of the community. At the conclusion of his address the audience sang "Till We Meet Again" and the meeting was at an end. List of names reported on Thursday:

CHARLEROI PLAYS DONORA THIS EVENING

The Charleroi high school basket ball team will engage the Donora high school team, on the latter's floor this evening. Donora seems to be Charleroi's jinx, or has been for several seasons. In view of the fact that the local players are going well just now, they are going to Donora determined to dispel that particular "jinx," and quite a number of local fans will accompany them. The game promises to be an interesting one. Pupils will be admitted to this game for 20 cents.

DONORA TO EMPLOY BUREAU METHODS

The Directors of the Donora Community Service, at a meeting held Tuesday evening last entered into an agreement with the American City Bureau of New York for the handling of a big reorganization and membership campaign to take place in the big steel town within the next thirty days. A representative of the City Bureau was present at the meeting on Tuesday, and after he had outlined the plans of his company it was unanimously decided to enter into a campaign to be directed by the New York organization.

The Donora Community Service has done a great deal of work in the past couple of years in a public way but the active members realize that those who give of their time and money have their own business affairs to look after, and that if the organization is to be a success, it must be reorganized and a paid secretary placed in charge. This they are now going to do, and Donora promises to have one of the best organizations of the kind in the valley.

High School Play Well Presented By 1921 Class

The presentation of Sydney Grundy's three-act comedy, "Truth a la Mode," by the members of the Mid-Year Class of 1921, at the high school auditorium, last evening, proved to be a most pleasurable event. Relatives and friends of the class were out in force, filling the hall, and the consensus of opinion which prevailed at the conclusion of the play was that the performance just witnessed would rank in merit with any which have preceded it. From the time that the curtain rose on the first act, until it descended at the close of the performance, the audience was convulsed with laughter at the many intricate situations which developed, and the clever manner in which the young actors extricated themselves from these was rewarded with merited outbursts of applause. All who essayed the different characters did most commendable work. True, some of the performers were more effective than others, but the combined efforts of the cast resulted in a production which held glory enough for all. One very enjoyable feature of the play was the easy manner in which it proceeded, there being no visible hitch throughout the evening. Another matter which was favorably commented upon was the audibility of each participant, something which, in amateur productions, is too often lost sight of. Miss F. Maud Beck, under whose direction the play was produced, is to be congratulated on the splendid success which attended her efforts.

Raymond Rossomme, who assumed the title role of "Mr. Arthur Hummingtop,"—who in order that he might be able to emerge as gracefully as possible from the many unfortunate conditions which he innocently became a party to, lied so easily that he eventually came to believe that he was telling the truth—did remarkably well. His reading of the lines, together with his effective stage work, was much enjoyed. Howard Bradley as "Ralph Ormerod," and Irwin Lichter, in his portrayal of the English dude, "Joshua Gillibrand," won the approval of all by their clever and convincing work. The female members of the cast were well chosen for the respective parts their tastefulness and attractiveness of custume, not to mention the individual grace and charm of each, constituted a picture in itself. Miss Mary Berryman, as Mrs. Gillibrand, mother-in-law of Hummingtop, proved a most genial surprise by her splendid interpretation of this character. Miss Sudie Zellers, as "Mrs. Hummingtop," and Miss Ruth Fellows as "Daisy Maitland," not only looked the parts, but did the work allotted them in a most acceptable way. "Rosa Colombier, the vamp," was cleverly done by Audrey Michiner, while the minor parts of "Dobson" and "Barbara" were well taken care of by Russell Jones and Ruth Minch. All in all, the performance was one which gave general satisfaction and all who had a part in it are entitled to their full measure of credit.

Music for the evening was furnished by the High School orchestra, and their playing was very much enjoyed.

Gospel Services

And I saw another angel fly in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth, and to every nation and kindred, and tongue, and people Rev. 14:6. And this gospel of the kingdom shall be preached in all the world for a witness until all nations; and then shall the end come. Matt. 24:14. Dear reader what gospel, if any, have you been listening to? Do you realize that there are doctrines of men (Matt. 15:9, Coll, 2:22) and doctrines of devils (I Tim. 4:1.) as well as the doctrine of Jesus the Christ the son of the living God? Take heed that no man deceive you. Matt. 24:4. Are you being deceived? Do you want to know the truth as set forth in the revealed will of God? Come and worship with us and learn the true way that leadeth unto life eternal. Services on Sunday at 11:00 A. M. and 7:45 P. M. and every week-day, except Saturday at 7:45 p. m.

Everybody is hereby invited to attend all of our services.

WILL DISCUSS ROAD SITUATION WITH STATE HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT

Commissioners In Harrisburg Today To Interview Officials

MAY DISCUSS UP-RIVER ROAD

County Commissioner Elmer E. Johnston and James W. Walker, accompanied by County Engineer Geo. S. Chaney, went to Harrisburg last night, where they held a conference today with the State Highway Department officials. The trip was made in the interest of submitting a petition for state aid on some pieces of road that it is desired to improve. Work on these roads has been held up because no state aid, due to lack of funds, could be secured the last year. With the legislature about to appropriate money for state aid road work the commissioners deemed it good policy to get their petition in early.

One road in particular for which state aid will be asked is the one leading from Lone Pine to Marianna. The road passes through West Bethdehem township, and that township has agreed to bear 25 per cent of the expense.

Another road for which help will be asked is a small stretch in Bentleyville borough, between the end of the improved portion of the Beallsville-Bentleyville road and the railroad in Bentleyville. It is very rough and needs improvement.

The Canonsburg-Venice road will also be taken up. There is an improved road from McDonald to Venice and from Venice towards Canonsburg for about four miles. There is, however a stretch of about a mile and one-third that is not. Last year no state aid could be secured because of lack of funds.

It is likely the commissioners will take up the general road situation with State Highway Commissioner Sadler while in Harrisburg, and may possibly say something with reference to the beginning of the improvement of the Speers-Coal Centre road. This highway has had many promises made, but they have been so long in fulfilling that citizens directly interested are almost despairing of any movement being made toward a betterment of conditions.

RECONSTRUCTION WORK IS NOW UNDER WAY

The actual work on the reconstruction of the Hotel Wilbur building into a modern banking house began today. A force of men are at work on the second floor removing doors and other fixtures, preparatory to taking out partitions, to be followed later by the removal of the floor in order to make the first and second stories of the building into one large room. The work will be somewhat tedious but can be pushed every day regardless of weather.

CRAFT WILL IS BEING CONTESTED

In the estate of Samuel W. Craft, late of California, a hearing was held on Thursday before Register John Aiken, regarding the legality of the will, the contestant, Samuel C. French a grandson, raising the question of the mental capacity of the deceased to make and execute the will in question Samuel W. Craft left an estate valued at from $7,000 to $8,000, consisting of a house and lot in California, and about $3,500 in money

The bulk of his estate was left to a granddaughter. Mrs. Geraldine Stewart, of Lock No. 4. A small bequest was made to a daughter of Mrs. Stewart. Samuel C. French, a cousin of the principal legatee, who is contesting the will, was given $1. The hearing was not completed yesterday and was adjourned until February. 2.

WEST BROWNSVILLE AGAIN HAS POLICE

After a lapse of several weeks the borough of West Brownsville now has a regular police officer, who was sworn in last Monday. All regular police officers were suspended several weeks ago, owing to the financial condition of the borough and members of the volunteer fire department have been acting as police officers until the new official was sworn in.

Cassius M. Dunn, formerly of Washington county, has resigned as assistant director of the State Compensation Bureau at Harrisburg to take a position in Pittsburg. He went to Harrisburg ten years ago as the personal stenographer for Governor Tener.

Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Flickinger left Wednesday night, for Ashville, N. C. where they will spend some time while Mr. Flickinger recuperates from a recent severe illness. Before going South Mr. Flickinger enrolled his name among the members of the new Chamber of Commerce.

William T. Elwood of Eldora, who was seriously injured at the Allenport mill on the 10th of December last, has returned home from the Charleroi-Monessen hospital, where he underwent treatment.

CLASS GIVES SHOWER FOR TWO RECENT BRIDES

The Isabella Thorburn Class of the Methodist Episcopal Church was entertained by Miss Mary Welsh and Miss Hazel Peters, in the home of Miss Peters on First Street, Thursday evening, in the form of a shower for two recent brides of the class: Mrs. John Bevan, formerly Miss Phyllis Murray, and Mrs. Larie Gibson, formerly Miss Margaret Wilson. Fancy work was the main diversion of the evening. Following a social hour the brides were requested to enter the dining room, where a pleasant surprise was in store for them, each receiving many gifts. A danty lunch was then served by the hostesses.

GLORY ACCRUES TO LEADER

To Be Remembered, One Has Only to Be First in Some Undertaking That Succeeds.

Adam's glory was in being the first man, and Eve's in being the first woman. They have been talked of through all the centuries for nothing except that they were the first to live, the first to be tempted and the first to fall.

And so it is with many other persons and events that find their places in history. Always it is the beginnings of things that shed glory on the participants. Christopher Columbus has just been honored again because he was the first to discover America, and the landing of the Pilgrims is celebrated because they were the first to colonize Massachusetts. Harvard rejoices in being the first institution of learning in what is now the United States and having set up the first printing press. The first settlers of any community are always persons of prime interest, and the first man to wear pantaloons or carry an umbrella, if living today, could coin money by putting himself on exhibition.

If one wants to be remembered, one has only to pick out the spot where a great city is to be built, or connect himself with an industry that is bound to grow, or do something that is bound to become the fashion. He is at once immortalized. Generation after generation will speak his name, and on anniversary occasions orators will sound his praise. He may be individually no greater than thousands who have come after, but the glory of having been the first will be upon him forever and a day.—Columbus Dispatch.

SET RECORD FOR PROFLIGACY

Danish Courtier, Hundreds of Years Ago, Started Fashion Copied by Some Modern "Sports."

The "sport" who lights his cigarets with $5 bills had the pace set hundreds of years ago by courtiers in the reign of Queen Caroline Matilda of Denmark. Bills worth $30 were used by them as pipe lighters, and the leadership was taken by an old rake, Count Rantzau, who, although 60, won the love of the beautiful Sophia Liverner, of the royal ballet, a maid of 18 years. Rantzau was the brains behind the plot that broke the rule of the guilty queen and her lover, Dr. Struensee, and put the dowager queen, Juliana Maria, in power.

That astute lady promptly turned on Rantzau and ordered him banished. He was sunk in melancholy, but brightened long enough to give a series of balls and entertainments more brilliant than any the kingdom had known. Then he drew his pistol, and all would have been over had not the lovely Sophia entered at that moment and by singing a trio of old melodies to the tinkle of her harp won back his desire to live. He did not die until many years later, and then died as he would have wished to die with his boots on, and as the result of a duel in France over the favor of a lady.

Capt. Roger Clap to His Children.

Roger Clap's words to his children were:

"You have better food and raiment than was in former times; but have you better hearts than your forefathers had? If so, rejoice in that mercy, and let New England then shout for joy. Sure all the people of God in other parts of the world, that shall hear the children and grandchildren of the first planters of New England have better hearts, and are more heavenly than their predecessors they will doubtless greatly rejoice, and will say: 'This is the generation whom the Lord hath blessed.'"

Capt. Roger Clap, an English colonist in America, was one of the founders of Dorchester, Mass., settling there in 1630. He was captain of the fort or "castle" on Castle Island from 1665 to 1686, after which, until his death, he lived in Boston. He is best remembered for his "Memoirs," which he prepared about 1676, but which were not published until 1731, when they were edited by Thomas Prince.

Porridge is what the Scots are brought up on: that and theology, and the curious thing is that only those who come from north of the Tweed know the secret of how to make it. The English have a breakfast dish made with oats, while the people of the United States are perfectly frank about it and call it "oatmeal." The Scots have been accused of being clannish, but it may be that they are only fond of their national dish. A traveler in Canada one morning alighted from the train at Scotia Junction. Did the name of the station and the pictures of Edinburgh castle and the Forth bridge in the little hotel bring back any happy memories? Perhaps yes. Perhaps, no. Anyhow it was noticed that when he heard the quiet request, "Will yer hae some parritch?" a smile spread over his face. That settled it. The best must be a Scot.

COURAGE OF SAMURAI TESTED

Boy of Twelve Forced to Show He Was Not Afraid of Death by His Own Hand.

Sato told us stories—the young man who wanted the sword that he might disembowel the Russians and not have to bite their throats in the hand-to-hand fighting.

Then the story of the samurai boy who must once in his life face death—make up his mind that he is to die. His own case, at the age of twelve, coming home from school, to find his great uncle and his mother all serious, a naked sword on a little wooden rack, the house all in order.

To be told that he had disgraced the family, he had dishonored his father's sword and killed a dog. He was to be given the privilege of committing hara-kiri, for he was a samurai's son.

His great uncle gave him an object lesson, showed him how it was done and told him to proceed, wrapping the blade in paper, that it might not cut his hand, and telling him that he must do as he had seen his great uncle do, or be shamed.

The boy begged for mercy. His kinsman and his mother were immovable. Was he afraid to die? If so they might help him, and the uncle put his hand on his sword.

The boy's tears stopped. He knew his time had come and bowed. He opened his dress, rubbed his abdomen three times. He put out his hand and grasped the sword. He knew no more till a cry of "Mate" (Stop) brought him to his senses.

The reprieve at last. An instant more and he would have been dead by his own hand. He waited dazed in a death sweat. His courage had been tested. He had faced death.—Asia Magazine.

ACCORDED PALM FOR BEAUTY

Miss Harriet Lane Acknowledged to Have Been the Prettiest Lady of the White House

Historians are inclined to give to Miss Harriet Lane, niece of President Buchanan the palm for being the prettiest woman that ever ruled the White House social life. She was a blond with red-gold hair, deep-blue eyes and her mouth was said to be one of the most beautiful ever owned by a Washington belle. Her beauty was so noticeable that at the dawn of womanhood, when she accompanied her uncle, then America's representative in England, to Oxford, where he was to receive the degree of doctor of civil laws, that the student body greeted her appearance with terrific cheers inspired entirely by the smile of her lovely lips as she turned her bewitching face toward them.

Not only was she beautiful in line and curve but in addition she was a picture of perfect health, an athlete of no mean order, as many a young gallant discovered after she had challenged him to a race and left him so badly that spectators of the race mercifully chaffed him. She played many games with skill and vigor, and there was not a woman in Washington that could compete with her in any game calling for strength and great activity. In spite of this she was not unwomanly, and excelled as a harpist, wrote poetry, and, as the young people of the capital reported, "danced like a feather."

Come to the eastern side of the peak and look once more upon the desert while yet there is time. The afternoon sun, as it drives its rays through the passes like the sharp-cut shafts of searchlights, and the shadows of the mountains are lengthening in distorted silhouette upon the sands below. Yet still the San Bernardino range leading off southeast to the Colorado river is glittering with sunlight at every peak. You are above it and can see over its crests in any direction. The vast sweep of the Mojave lies to the north; the Colorado with its old seabed lies to the south. Far away to the east you can see the faint forms of the Arizona mountains melting and mingling with the sky; and in between lie the long pink rifts of the desert valleys and the lilac tracery of the desert ranges.—"The Desert," by C. Van Dyke.

A Flying Chariot.

. . . All Paris, I think, myself among the rest, assembled to see the valiant brothers, Robert and Charles, mount into the air yesterday, in company with a certain Pilatre de Rosier, who conducted them in the newly invented flying chariot fastened to an air-balloon. It was from the middle of the Tuileries that they set out, a place very favorable and well-contrived for such public purposes. But all was so nicely managed, so cleverly carried on, somehow, that the order and decorum of us who remained on firm ground struck me more than even the very strange sight of human creatures floating in the wind; but I have really been witness to ten times as much bustle and confusion at a crowded theater in London, than what these peaceful Parisians make when the whole city was gathered together. . . . —Mrs. Piozi (1784).

Greeks Originated Ostracism.

Ostracism was a religious ceremony and a political move, as well as a banishment in its original workings. The word comes from the Greek "ostrea" meaning the shell of an oyster. The shells were used as ballots. Ostracism was rather a compliment, as it took 6,000 votes to remove a man by ostracism, and anyone being important enough to arouse the desire of that many to having him expelled for a period of 10 years must have been of more than usual importance.

The Third Heaven.

According to an ancient Jewish opinion there were three heavens: (1) that wherein the birds fly, (2) that wherein the stars move, (3) that where the Highest and His angels live. In II Corinthians St. Paul's reference is to the heaven of heavens, the place of God's ruling over angels and all powers, as distinct from Paradise where the souls of the faithful dead abide, to which blest place he was raptured, also, as he says in the same passage.

Races of Mankind.

According to Wattaker's almanac, the Mongolian race is the largest, with 675,000,000 as compared to 645,000,000 of Caucasians, 100,000,000 of negroes, 51,000,000 of Semites, 32,000,000 of Malays and 23,000,000 of Red Indians. The Mongolian, or yellow race, includes the people of China, Tibet, Japan, Korea, Siam and Indochina, together with many of the tribes of Siberia and other parts of Asia.

Hadn't Wasted Any Time.

A young couple rushed into a marriage license bureau recently and announced to the clerk that they wished to be married at once. Dan Cupid's executive officer surveyed the couple from under grizzled brows and said severely: "I'm afraid this is a runaway match." "Well, your honor," returned the prospective groom, "I can't exactly say we ran, but we walked pretty fast."

As eminent a man as John Wesley, in his directions on the art of keeping well, wrote that "many of the medicines used among the common people of my time were first discovered by animals using them to cure their aches and pains." He said also: "It looked reasonable that if they would heal animals, they would also heal man."

Early Fireworks.

In Rome, at the creation of the popes, illuminated "hand grenades" were thrown from the tops of castles, and about the commencement of the Fourteenth century fireworks had become an art in which inventors displayed great ability in combining the powers of architecture, sculpture and painting.

Made Levy of Goose Feathers.

Six feathers from the wings of every goose in their counties, was the war levy King Henry V made upon the lord lieutenants of English counties when about to make war upon France in 1417. The feathers were needed for the arrows of the archers, the infantrymen of the day.

America's First Street Railroad.

November 26, 1832, the first street railway in America began operation. It was the New York & Harlem road. The line's only car was drawn by one horse and ran from the city hall to Fourteenth street, a distance of a mile and three-quarters.

Some Very Old Trees

Few trees grow to a great age. Those at Torentain's abbey, Yorkshire, England, were old in 1132. California has trees thousands of years old in the Mariposa grove, and baobab trees in Africa are over four centuries old.

Rulers' Postage Privileges.

The king of England pays no postage, which is perhaps just as well, since he yearly receives about a quarter of a million business letters. The heads of all kingdoms and republics enjoy similar privileges.

WOULD PROHIBIT DOG-EATING

Custom Common Among the Igorots Is Declared to Be Undesirable for Many Reasons.

Those who remember the article in this magazine a short time ago telling of the cruelties connected with the killing of dogs for food among the Igorots, says Our Dumb Animals, will be glad to know that it has aroused sufficient interest to cause the Manila Daily Bulletin to say, according to a clipping we have just received:

"The office of the Department of the Interior is constantly receiving from persons in the United States, mostly women, letters protesting against dog-eating in the mountain province among the Igorots, it was declared by Secretary Kalaw of the department. All of them, he said, urge that in the interests of civilization and better and higher mode of living, a law should be passed by the Philippine legislature prohibiting the sale and the use of dogs as food material.

"Aside from the fact that the act of eating dogs is highly undesirable, the letters state, it is very inhumane. The Igorots, they state, like to eat lean dogs and that the more lean they are, the more palatable they taste to the Igorots. Consequently, when a dog is bought in the dog market at Baguio or at any other place, it is left to starve for many days before it is eaten, the communications declare.

"When asked if the passage of a law prohibiting the sale and the eating of dogs by the Igorots was in order, Secretary Kalaw declared that it might be done in an indirect manner."

SWORD WORTHY OF OWNER

Blade Worn by Miles Standish Has Been Traced to the Time of the Crusades.

Among the relics of the Pilgrims that may be seen when visitors throng the old town of Plymouth for the tercentenary observances few are more interesting than the sword of Miles Standish. It may be seen in Pilgrim hall.

It is a Damascus blade and presumably came into the possession of the Pilgrim captain from someone whose ancestors had brought it from the Crusades.

It bears several curious inscriptions which waited until June, 1881, to be translated. Then Prof. James Rosedale of Jerusalem went with a band of Arabs to America's most important shrine and found that the carved characters belonged to different dates—some in Cufic and very old.

He was only able to translate one of a later period in Arabic. The words given here show that its spirit was quite appropriate to the spirit of the Pilgrims:

"With peace God ruled his Slaves And with the judgments of His arms He troubled the Mighty of the wicked."

Rock Many Religious Associations.

A report on the Dome of the Rock of Jerusalem is shortly to be published and will be of great interest to the Mahommedan world. It may not be generally known that this place is the third in sanctity of all the sanctuaries of Islam, and indeed for a short period it actually formed the Kibla toward which all Moslems prostrated themselves in prayer. Among the more important religious associations of this rock we may mention that it was here that David and Solomon were called to repentance and on account of a vision David chose this site for his temple. From this same spot Mohammed ascended to the Seventh Heaven after his night journey from Mecca, and lastly it is to be the scene of the Great Judgment. The historical associations are not less striking, and such famous names as Omar, Abd-el-Malek, Saladin and Suleiman are all connected with the rock.—From the Zanzibar Gazette.

Private Stocking.

A North Shore citizen took Junior up on his knee and asked him: "Well, my little son, what would you like Santa Claus to bring you for Christmas?"

"Oh, I want him to bring me a humdinger."

"A humdinger, eh? And may I ask you to describe one?"

"I don't know how they look, but when you and Mr. Jones came up from the basement the other evening you said to him, 'Wasn't that a humdinger?' and he said: 'It sure was.' I would like to have one just like that for Christmas.' So I thought if it was something nice for Christmas I would like to have one, too."—Publisher's Auxiliary.

Hounds in Funeral Tribute.

Twenty-one pairs of hounds filed solemnly past the grave at the funeral of William Selby-Lowndes, a well-known English country squire of the old school, who had been master of the Whaddon hounds for 25 years. The village churchyard overlooks the famous Whaddon Chase. After the burial service, the members of the hunt led the famous Whaddon Chase pack past the flower-lined grave.

Missed Her.

"How is your afternoon bridge club getting on?"

"Oh, rather poorly. You know, dear, Mrs. Brown has left us."

"But I thought she was an atrocious player."

"Yes; but then, she always had delicious stories to tell about [illegible]."—Boston Transcript.

"MOVIE" CENSORSHIP

The "movies" are not only advertising themselves daily all over the world but are continually receiving advertisement from critics who represent either art or morality. The former object to the pictured stories on the ground that they are inartistic but more often really because they take so much business away from other forms of entertainment, particularly the speaking drama—or in the language of the "movie" people the "speakies." The latter object on the ground that screen plays corrupt our young men and women and incite boys to emulation of the questionable adventures or vicious achievements they witness in the picture-houses. The New York Times, on the other hand, contends that the picture-plays check a boy's normal and desirable impulse toward adventure. "The boy that spends much of his leisure time in the movie theatres," says the Times, "contents himself with the adventures he sees on thes creen, instead of finding adventures for himself and taking part in them, as he should. He watches the game instead of playing it."

All this free advertising, which sends more people to the picture houses instead of scaring any away, merely shows that the drama in moving-picture form has come to stay on the demand of unnumbered millions throughout the world. To talk of abolition would be as idle as to propose to stay the ocean tides. But there can be regulation and there ought to be. A proper censorship such as now exists in four States can be and doubtless eventually will be extended to 48 States.

That we are a busy people, paying attention to our own affairs, was clearly shown when President-elect Harding spent several hours in Cleveland, shopping, without being recognized. How many persons would recognize the president of the United States, should he appear on the streets of some other city than Washington, entirely unannounced.

When a landlord is so touched by the sad story of a tenant that he is willing to start a collection for their benefit, it is testimony that they are not all the hard hearted breed they have been pictured. That is what one New York landlord did the other day when he found one of his tenants in court for non-payment of rent.

Jersey mosquitos have refused to recognize the mild winter, it is claimed, and some of the marshes of the Northern part of the state have been seen in swarms. Here's hoping for the sake of the people, a cold snap will put them out of business.

Literature Immortal.

Books are the metempsychosis, the symbol and presage of immortality. The dead are scattered, and none shall find them; but behold they are here —H. W. Beecher.

Strange Stunts With Tadpoles.

Tadpoles fed on extract of the thyroid gland develop through the various stages of their metamorphoses into frogs very rapidly, but they do not grow in size, when their own thyroids are suppressed—by cauterization or excision—or when they are fed on extracts of the thymus gland they grow to great size, but never develop into frogs, remaining nothing but giant tadpoles all their lives.

Those Who Are Gone

Those who are gone you have. Those who departed living you love yet still; and you love them always. They are not really gone—those dear hearts and true—they are only gone into the next room; and you will presently get up and follow them, and yonder door will be closed upon you, and you will be no more seen.—W. M. Thackeray.

Meteors

A meteor is a sudden luminous phenomenon, as of a star or bright body in rapid motion through the air, produced by a small mass of matter perhaps from the celestial spaces striking the air with great velocity, and suffering heating, dissipation, or combustion. Before encountering the earth they travel in their own orbits.

How Man Shortens His Time.

[illegible] dab [illegible] just [illegible] precious [illegible] Mormon tells that at the age of 50 years the average man has slept [illegible] walked 6,500, walked 500 and used himself up. [illegible] was ill 25 days.

The game of life is not unlike the struggle on the football gridiron. It has all types of players. Some play for the mere fun of muscular struggle, others play for the joy of winning. Some play because others play. Some play because they have no other demand upon their time. Still others feel that their very joy in living is bound up in the right to exercise and the enthusiasm of contests with their fellows. But be that as it may, we are all playing the game of life. Too many are playing to the grandstand and never become players of ability. Others just toy with the game and try to remain in the company that offers attractions for them. With the winners it's different. They put everything possible into the game. They make plays count and life rewards their zeal with gain

Insects Not Prohibitionists.

There are no prohibitionists among the insects, says a correspondent. Hundreds of wasps were recently observed, among the fir trees of Keston lake crawling eagerly over spindles and sucking at drops of turpentine which form at this time of year. A vast humming came from the trees, reminiscent of the mid-summer ring over the heated hay fields. Large flies and blue-bottles were also seen. In many cases the insects consumed so much of the firewater that they fell to the ground in a drunken stupor, or clung hazardly to the trees. The wolf-spider chasing its prey through the grass like a dog was having a rich harvest. Other insects came to the bacchanalian repast. A species of aphis was much in evidence and also its keeper, the ant, busy milking it of its gathered liquor.

THE FRANKLIN

Franklin owners can make authoritive comparisons because 95 per cent of them have previously owned other cars.

We recently asked a large number of them to name the Franklin advantages. Here are the results, in order—

1. Riding comfort
2. Tire mileage
3. Gasoline economy
4. Direct air cooling
5. Easy handling.
6. Low upkeep cost

[illegible] what it was designed to do when its principle of weight, flexibility and direct air cooling were adopted [illegible]

Any motorist can easily make further comparisons with these Franklin owners' figures:

20 miles to the gallon of gasoline
12,500 miles to the set of tires.
50 per cent slower yearly depreciation

TRUTH ABOUT AVERAGE MAN

Not a Bad Fellow at Heart, and Really Is at Least Entitled to Toleration.

The average man is not a bad fellow when you come to know him. You have to make his acquaintance if you are not to hold yourself aloof from this human, interdependent world, remarks a writer in the Philadelphia Ledger. He constitutes a majority. It is by his vote that candidates are set up and issues determined and business governed and charities supported and plays patronized. There is a great deal of money in pleasing the average man. Moreover, the level of his tastes is rising, though pessimists refuse to see it or to say so. He is capable of education and he has traveled far since his training began.

He needn't always be given all that he asks for; sometimes he makes mistakes, and sometimes he wants what isn't good for him. Sometimes he loses his head, and in an incendiary or inebriate temper, loses that which a cooler judgment in a calmer hour leads him to worry for. But on the whole he is strangely reasonable and patient and self-controlled. It is touching to find how often he is doing the best he can, according to the light he has. He serves the world far better than some eccentric and unconventional mortals who sneer at him for following a dull, unemotional routine.

Leaders of men have learned to deal with the average man, to talk his language and to understand his ways. They have taught the rank and file to discover a latent capacity and to reveal a strength hidden and unsuspected. They have had faith in "the general good sense and honest intentions of mankind." They have genuinely loved their fellows and their sympathy has been real and manifest. Neither in war nor in peace is a victory to be won unless the captains put their confidence in a host.

SCORED ON THE PRINCIPAL

Young School Teacher Got Gloriously Even for Long Series of Sarcastic Observations.

Now, the principal of this school is sarcastic as well as intelligent, and whenever she happens to mention a subject and finds that her teachers are ignorant on the subject she "bawls them out" for their ignorance. Especially is this resented by the newest recruit at the building.

Recently the principal acquired "a man," who was a widower. She is proud of the acquisition, mentioning him often in her conversations.

The other morning she began to ask the teachers about an article she had just read in the paper. Now, none of them had read it. Sarcastically she asked: "Well, don't any of you read the papers?"

The newest recruit smiled sweetly and wisely. "Of course," she returned, "but not everything in them. We just have time to read the society page and then the death and funeral list so that we shall know who the new widowers are."—Indianapolis News.

Autoing for Wolves.

The motorcycle threatens to outrival the broncho as an instrument of locomotion on Western ranches and cattle ranges. According to the Illustrated World, cowboys are using it for rounding up cattle, driving in stray animals, inspecting long lines of fences and other such work. By all odds the most remarkable purpose for which the motorcycle is employed, however, is that of chasing coyotes. Such a machine, if the terrain be not too difficult can easily overtake one of those little gray wolves, tiring the beast down to a point where it can no longer turn and dodge successfully. Then it is simply a matter of a whirl of the lariat, and the vicious brute, with a few quick spurts of the motorcycle is choked to death.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

The girls in the seventh grade all wore large hair bows made of beautiful, bright tissue paper. They were not only inexpensive but so pretty that they were declared a great success until one day it rained and the bows faded all over the little owners' hair. Then great was the lamenting.

One of the boys looked from the girls with their spotted red and blue and purple hair to two spinster teachers in the fifty-year-old class. "I don't know as they're so badly off," he remarked to the teacher who was young and pretty and with a strong sense of humor. "I'd rather be faded on account of having beaus than to be on account of not having them."

Then teacher smiled. She too had preferences.—Indianapolis News.

Belt Full of Sea Lion Scalps.

As the sea lion is regarded as the worst enemy of the salmon, the state of Washington pays a bounty of $2.50 on every sea lion scalp and recently William Hunter, who devotes his entire time to hunting sea lions, collected $880 for 352 scalps which he gathered during the season. This man is also paid by the salmon fisheries for his efforts to rid the waters of the sea lions. He is known as the "king of the sea lion hunters."

Black Opal Prized.

Almost every known gem is mined in Australia. The black opal is the most beautiful of all. It has increased 300 per cent in value in the last two years and the best quality now brings nearly $40 a carat. It ranges in size from 1 to 40 carats.

CALLS FOR MANY QUALITIES

Archeologist Must Be Scholar, Linguist, Engineer and Artist, and Expert Handler of Men.

The modern archeologist in Egypt must be more than a scholar. He must have studied history, it is true; he must be familiar with what is known of the art and life of Old Egypt and he must have mastered the ancient language so that he can read the hieroglyphs carved on temple and tomb.

But scholarship is only part of his equipment. He must know something of engineering and something of drawing; he must have a sense of organization; he must himself be ready to turn to with pick and shovel, should occasion arise.

The task of disinterring ancient structures and their precious contents uninjured is a delicate one, not to be done hastily or haphazardly.

In addition to being scholar and engineer, linguist and artist, the modern archeologist must understand how to handle men. The men employed in archeological excavation in Egypt are usually boys from 10 to 20 years of age. Older than that, in a country where men and women age tragically fast, they are likely to be stupid.

Usually they are irresponsible and, spurred on by the light-fingered "antika" dealers in neighboring villages. The wise archeologist puts them on piecework—so much for every cubic foot of earth removed, with bakshish, carefully calculated on the basis of the "antika" dealers' current rates, for every object unearthed.

Since the bakshish varies with the condition of the object, it is to the interest of the worker to get each "find" out entire, if possible, or, if breakage is inevitable, with no part missing.

Half of the minor objects discovered go to the Egyptian government and half are retained by the institution conducting the exploration.

SHOWED ENMITY IN BOYHOOD

Encounter Between Youthful Cromwell and King Charles I Might Be Called Prophetic.

Cromwell and Charles I of England first met when they were children at Hinchinbrook house, the home of a mutual friend of both the king and Oliver's father. The boys were told to play together while their elders talked over affairs of state and fashion. They got along well enough for a while, and then a dispute arose. The young king was not used to opposition to his princely will, and when Oliver stoutly clung to his rights the king struck him.

Oliver cared not a bit that the blow was aimed by a king's hand. He swung his somewhat grimy fist as hard as he could, and caught Charles on the nose with the to-be-expected result. Blood flowed in quantities, and the young prince set up a great howl. Servants came running, and all might have gone ill with the careless commoner had not Charles' father taken a hand and declared that the blow was to be forgiven, as it was given in defense of a right, and his son must learn to know that right was greater than kings.

Cough May Originate in Stomach.

In the Bulletin de la Societe Medical of Paris, Dr. G. G. Hayen describes a patient, a man of fifty-three, who for twenty-five years had had vague dyspeptic disturbances for which he had taken pounds of sodium bicarbonate and other drugs in the course of the years. During the last six years he had been tormented with a cough and spitting of thick mucus from the stomach. Under treatment of the dyspepsia by lavage of the stomach and dieting, the cough disappeared. Hayen reiterates the necessity for seeking latent stomach disease with a puzzling cough, and also the necessity with chronic gastritis to restrict to two meals a day, with a nine-hour interval.

A marriage ceremony in unusual circumstances is reported from Japan. A young man and a young woman committed shinju, or double suicide, for love, by throwing themselves into the sea. Both bodies were recovered and cremated with Buddhist ceremonies. The ashes were then brought to the home of the girl's father and he performed a marriage ceremony with the ashes of the two lovers.

According to the Buddhist faith, the marriage tie contracted in this world will carry over to the next. When circumstances prevent a marriage in this world, many Japanese men and women commit suicide in the hope of a happy married life in the world to come.

Monkeys Mourned Comrade.

Monkeys are very human in their desire to help one another, and quite skillful in their rude surgery. An African explorer tells a story of a female monkey that was shot by one of a hunting party that he was with. Several of the tribe of which she was a member came as close to the tent where her body was lying as they dared, holding out their arms and making mournful cries, as if begging that she should be given back to them. Then a gray old man monkey, probably the chief, came still closer, chattering and one could imagine almost weeping. When given the body, he took it in his arms, examined the wound, then walked away, the others trailing him in single file, thus forming a regular funeral procession.

INVENTORYING

The winter months give the farmer an opportunity to take stock of his last year's successes and failures, and to turn them to good account in laying plans for the coming season.

Facts in this way brought to light may mean the dropping of a crop proved to be raised at a loss, or eliminating livestock that have been living as "boarders" on his bounty.

Progressive farmers lay their plans ahead at inventory-time. We are glad to help such farmers in their business.

DREW CHARACTER FROM LIFE

Thackeray's "Beatrice" Said to Have Been Modeled on Career of Profligate Duchess.

One of the few feminine characters of Thackeray that was not declared insipid by critics, was his Beatrice. She was drawn from real life, and the original was the daughter of Col. Thomas Chudleigh, afterward to become Elizabeth, duchess of Kingston. She married Augustus Hervey, earl of Bristol, after setting all London by the ears with her beauty, spirit and pranks. He was a member of the naval forces, and shortly after their secret wedding was called to sea, and when he returned found his wife the reigning beauty of the court and head over heels in half a dozen affairs, the one with the duke of Kingston being so notorious that even the street gamins knew of it. She managed to bring a suit for a jactitation, and her husband was subject to heavy penalties should he say she was his wife. She then married the duke.

Her great beauty was a storm signal wherever she went in London and Paris, and a long list of duels, ruin and trouble followed her wake. Although she lost a part of her fortune she continued to be received at continental courts up to her death at the age of sixty-eight, as wicked in her final years as in her youth. She got drunk, swore, had a dozen lovers, ruined as many more, and in fact did everything that should have brought her shame and sorrow, but lived a riotous life to the end.

MEDALLION HELD AS CURIO

Only One of a Number Struck in 1825 Is Believed to Be in Existence Today.

To defray the expenses incident to the inauguration of John Quincy Adams as the sixth President of the United States in 1825, the inaugural committee sold medallions at $5 each. Five dollars was considerable money in those days, and the owner of a medallion was entitled to special consideration at the inaugural ceremonies.

As much as the medallions were prized 95 years ago, it is believed that only one exists today, the property of J. A. Larrick, a policeman detailed to Washington police headquarters.

The Adams medallion was given to Larrick 15 years ago by Edward Murphy, who is now dead. Murphy's father, who witnessed the inauguration of President Adams, was the original purchaser of the medal.

At the time he was presented with the medallion, Larrick was a policeman in the First precinct. Murphy was an aged bookkeeper. Larrick on several occasions assisted the old fellow and the medallion was his reward.

Probably the most striking thing about the medallion is its inscription, "Science Brings Peace and America Plenty."

Chose Wife by Her Feet.

Reading persons' characters from their feet is the method Sir Robert Baden-Powell, the chief scout, has admitted he employed in choosing his wife—"The best wife I ever had."

The secretary of a boy scouts' troop gives these examples of foot reading:

"Short steps denote a fussy, swaggering little person.

"Hurried, jerky steps, a nervous person.

"A slow slouch, a lazy man, a loafer.

"Smooth, quick steps, an intelligent, observant person."

A boy scout observed that a stolid person often walks flatfooted.

H. V. L. Ross, the walker, said: "The walker I most distrust, especially where a woman is concerned, is the one who comes down hard on the heels. I believe this is a sign of a bad-tempered person."—From the Continental Edition of the London Mail.

"The seashore jokes about short bathing costumes are back numbers," said Cortlandt Bleecker, the society leader at a Newport ball. "All the same—"

Mr. Bleecker chuckled merrily.

"Here's a good one, all the same. Two Newport girls were jazzing in their 'maillots' the other morning on the beach. You know the 'maillot' rig—no skirt, no stockings, no sleeves, and hardly any legs. Well, the first girl said as she jazzed:

"'It's jolly to have a little dance after your bath, isn't it?'

"'Yes,' said the second girl; 'only you feel so dressed up in these maillots after last winter's ball gowns.'"

Growth of Y. W. C. A.

The present membership of the Y. W. C. A. in the United States is 559,315, an increase of approximately 300,000 in the last five years. There are 1,212 association centers in the country, 351 of them in 234 cities of more than 25,000 population, 111 in smaller communities and 750 in colleges. This is exclusive of work being carried on by the American association in eight European countries, and in India, Japan, China, South America and Honolulu.

An Important Decision.

"I know just how that is," said the debutante. "I once sat for two hours at my writing table before I could write the one word, 'No.'"—Birmingham Herald.

Mysteries Concerning Melting Pot.

Certain metals, which melt only at rather high temperatures, may be mixed with each other in certain proportions and will then melt at very low temperatures. That is how some solders are made. Tin melts at 449.6 degrees Fahrenheit, lead at 620 degrees Fahrenheit, bismuth at 514.4 degrees Fahrenheit, and cadmium at 608 degrees Fahrenheit. But if you mix eight parts of bismuth with five parts of lead and three parts of tin (by weight), the alloy will melt in boiling water (212 degrees Fahrenheit). If you mix six parts of bismuth one part of lead, two parts of tin and two parts of cadmium it will melt in 158 degrees Fahrenheit. And if you want any alloy that will melt at 140 degrees, you have only to mix four parts of tin, eight parts of lead, fifteen parts of bismuth and three parts of cadmium.

Indiscreet Speech.

The little shoe shop was hot and overcrowded, and the woman had to wait in line to be waited on. Just ahead of her a voluble lady was discoursing on the subject of a sensible footwear and illustrating her lecture by a small, high-heeled shoe she had picked up from the counter. "Now just look at that," she said, scornfully. "It was never made for any human foot. No sane woman would dream of wearing it." And she glanced righteously at her own No. 7 commonsense boots. "I'd like to see its owner." "You can madam, if you glance behind you. For, if you'll permit me to take the one you have, I'll get Joe to wrap up my pair." And the tiny little creature in pongee who reached for the offending pump added a bit vindictively: "I'm still sane enough to know my own when I see them."—New York Evening Sun.

The Pangwes, a cannibal tribe of Africa, had an odd way of settling disputes with neighboring tribes. When they wished to settle a point they sent word to the tribe with which they had dispute, and the tribe selected 50 men, the Pangwes a similar number. These constituted the "armies" that were to settle the dispute. Both "armies" then repaired to an island in the river, set their canoes adrift, completely cutting themselves off from any assistance, and went to it. They hunted each other down through the trees and fought until all but one man was killed. The tribe to which this sole survivor belonged was the victor, and to it belonged all the dead on the island. The victorious tribe then carried off the dead friend and foe alike, and feasted for eight or ten days.

Soap From Clay.

Clay in the "colloidal form," when suitably prepared, may be satisfactorily substituted for a large proportion (up to about 50 per cent) of the fatty acids in soap. Matter may roughly be said to be in the "colloidal form" when it is in an extremely fine state of subdivision. As clay is cheap and soap relatively dear, the substitution of clay in this form for the fatty acids produces a notable reduction in cost. The clay is a real substitute for soap, and not an adulterant. Hot solutions of colloidal clay soap form jellies on cooling and thus this soap not only resembles ordinary soap in appearance, but in cleansing properties it is said to be even better than pure soap. Developments of this interesting discovery will be awaited with interest.—Discovery, London.

Long Hours in China.

The Chinese servant is wonderfully honest and efficient, says a correspondent, writing from China. He commences work early in the morning and seldom gets to bed before late at night. Moreover, he gets no night out or half day off once a week. If nature had not endowed him with a plethora of uncles, aunts and grandmothers, who are obliging enough to die at convenient times, and even to repeat the process if necessity arises, the ennui of his monotonous life would be too terrible to contemplate. Although the Chinese boy is no plaster saint, and in the genus are many worthless specimens, the average untrained boy is usually honest.

Drought Rests Australian Land.

What the snow is to Canada, drought is to Australia. It rests a land, which otherwise would exhaust itself by its own fertility. Of the amazing recuperative powers of Australian land under moderate rain, after drought that has scarified the face of the country into a grim specter of ashy barrenness, there is no doubt. You may ride hundreds of miles through country where the dryness is as that of Ezekiel's valley of bones, and returning three weeks later may find a green prairie of grass that sweeps your horse's knees. This will not happen everywhere; but there are innumerable parts of Australia where it is a commonplace of experience.

Out of the Rut.

The fiddlers three had just responded to old King Cole's hurry call. "Too many strings in the band, boys," said his majesty, "and you've got exactly one week from now to show me some real jazzbo stuff as torn off by a muted cornet, a saxophone and a set o' drums with all the trimmings. And if you don't make good, gadzooks and edsbodikins, you'd do well to settle your worldly affairs. Get me?"—Buffalo Express.

To Write Good English.

To be able to write good and pure English, one must habitually dwell and sympathize with men and women who write English of this character. Any young student who reads and enjoys Goldsmith, Jane Austen, Walter Scott, Macaulay, Froude, Stevenson, and other writers of similar rank, will certainly come in time to write good and pure English himself.—Meiklejohn.

William of Wykeham.

As a necessary adjunct and accessory to Winchester school, William of Wykeham founded New college at Oxford, and the publication of the charter of foundation of the latter establishment bears the date of November 26, 1379. Wykeham, to this day, is one of the most popular characters in English history, and his biography is indeed a large part of it.—Chicago Journal.

Violin Superstitions.

There is no musical instrument about which cling so many queer notions and superstitions as the violin. One of the strangest is that held by so many people that the tone of a violin is often improved by its being broken and then mended. It seems almost incredible, but that very idea is believed by thousands of people.

Oldtime Sleeping Couches.

The ancients slept on skins, but later beds were made of rushes, heather and straw. The Romans were the first to use feathers to make their beds more comfortable. Heliogabalus, 218 B. C., is credited with having employed air cushions, and air beds were used generally in the Sixteenth century.

DEFECT IN EXISTING MAPS

That They Are Not Drawn to Uniform Scale Is Felt to Be an Educational Handicap.

It has long been the dream of geographers to make a series of maps of the world on a uniform scale. Indeed, it is considered unfortunate for school children that the geographies do not show all countries by maps on a single, uniform scale, for unless a student observes very carefully the figures showing the scale of each map or the figures showing the area of the country mapped he is likely to get the impression that certain distant lands, which are generally mapped on a small scale, are smaller than those with which he is most familiar. Take Australia, for example: The maps in the geographies now used in most of our schools show it on a small scale—about one-third as large as that used for the map of the United States; yet Australia is, in fact, nearly as large as the United States—only about one-fortieth (2½ per cent) smaller. China is generally shown smaller in area than the United States, yet it is about one-third larger.

The work of preparing maps of the entire world on a uniform scale of one to one million—that is, maps on which one unit (any unit—inch, centimeter, millimeter, etc.) represents one million like units on the ground—has been under way for several years, and the United States geological survey, Department of the Interior, has made considerable progress in its work on the parts of this map that were assigned to the United States. The principle used in preparing these maps, if adopted by the publishers of school books, will give the children accurate impressions of the relative sizes of the countries of the world.

TEMPTED BY BRIGHT LIGHTS

Adventurous Bossie Attempted to Make Her Way Into Vaudeville in City of Dallas.

Gentle Bossie, tired of the humdrum life of giving milk and butter for the hungry mouths of some family, and bored with the pastoral quiet of the farm, determined the other night to have a taste of the gay life of the big city at least once before she crossed the River Styx. Accordingly she sought out the brightest lights of the city, a vaudeville house.

But first her bovine majesty sauntered gayly up Elm street from Lamar, gazing in the show windows as she roved. While in this vicinity she even attempted to enter a street car. Then, pursuing her primrose course, she plodded on toward the center of the city until she was confronted with the gray, yellow lights brightening the front of a vaudeville show. Not considering whether she would be a welcome guest, Bossie walked into the lobby of the show thereby nearly causing the head usher to be smitten with hysterics. He finally recovered, and, taking courage and a stick, he rushed at Bossie. Feeling that she was not wanted there, Bossie walked out again.

At the door she was met by a reception committee consisting of two policemen who had been summoned and without ceremony she was roped and led away to the city pound, where she brooded over the sights of the big city as she had seen them.—Dallas News.

Expect New Boom in Yukon.

That, with the discovery of the large silver areas in the vicinity of Keno Hill, the Yukon is entering on a new industrial era, is the statement made by Colonel Thompson, M. P. for the territory, who recently arrived in Ottawa after a three months' absence in the Northland. He expresses the opinion that the new silver find will take the place of the gold that first put the Yukon country on the map. Keno Hill is on the Mayo river, a tributary of the Stewart, 250 miles southeast of Dawson. The camp has a population of about 500. The ores are galena, carrying very high values of lead and silver the latter running from 80 to 250 ounces to the ton. Discoveries have been made over an area 50 miles in extent.

Madonna and Child on Stamps.

Religious subjects are not commonly used as the basis of stamp designs, although figures of the Madonna are known on the early stamps of the Virgin islands and more recently on the high values of Bavaria. A set of three special postage stamps, newly issued in the small principality of Lichtenstein, in honor of the eightieth birthday of the reigning prince, Johann II, represent the vision of the Virgin and the Holy Child appearing in the heavens above the capital town of Vaduz. The stamps are lithographed in large format, and comprise the denominations 30 heller green 80 heller carmine and 2 kronen blue.

Woman Best Hunger Striker.

Could a woman set the world's record for hunger striking?

Reports from Vienna, where the American relief administration European children's fund is feeding 160,000 boys and girls a day, indicate that a woman can live longer without food than a man.

"Girls show more resistance in fighting malnutrition than boys," said Ignatz Panzer, representative of the New York Produce exchange, who has just returned from Austria. "Physicians have found that a girl can go

THING THAT REALLY COUNTS

First Punch Always the Effective Agent, in Life as Well as the Squared Circle.

Georges Carpentier is a smart fellow—that is, he is something more than a fighter. One might even call the Frenchman a prophet.

"The one that gets in the first punch will win," he said, referring to his coming match with Dempsey.

We'll let it go at that so far as the next world's championship heavyweight fight goes. But just look around and see if you have a punch in your system and if you can land it first. How hard can you sock at your job? What is your batting average in the a. m. Or can you take a punch as well as give one?

They called Tris Speaker a miracle pilot because he put the punch into a ball club that copped the world title. He always made it a point to land first on the scoreboard and when he didn't he kept slugging away until he usually had his lead at the end of the game.

Man o' War is called the greatest horse the world has ever had. But the Biddle colt is just a horse that puts the best he has into every race and always Man o' War finishes ahead of the dust.

The football star who "hits 'em first" is usually on the honor roll when the cleats are hung up at the end of the season.

It's the punch that counts, from marbles to K. O.—Chicago Evening Post.

IMITATE CUSTOMS OF WEST

Manchu Women on Streets of Peking Use Rouge, but in Manner Pronounced Clumsy.

The first strikingly surprising custom among the citizens of Peking is that the women wear skirts, James A. Muller writes in the National Geographic Magazine. To a traveler fresh from America, this would seem as it should be, but to one resident in the land of trousered women it appears almost immodest!

They not only wear skirts; they further approximate western usage by painting their faces. Broadway is nature itself in comparison; for in Peking there are no light, artistic touches, but bold cheek circles of red upon frankly whitened faces—cometic unabashed.

These are the Manchu women. The Manchu men, descendants of the roving Tartars, go futilely about this spacious city of their fathers balancing trick birds upon their wrists; for, now that the empire is no more, their only occupation, that of ruling, is gone, and the conquered Chinese, immemorial city dwellers, are masters of the capital. It is a significant illustration of the age-old ability of the Chinese to absorb and enervate their conquerors.

A Little Love Story.

A dreamer and a man of action loved a woman. The dreamer said: "I shall write verses in her praise; they will touch her vanity and she will love me for them."

But the man of action said: "How old fashioned! I shall corner the stock market, and that will bring her."

So the dreamer wrote verses, and he induced a friend of his, who ran a ten-cent magazine to print them. And the man of action cornered something or other and became a billionaire.

In the meantime the girl married a man who inherited his money, and lived happy ever after.

But the dreamer was so proud of his verses that he didn't care; and the man of action was so busy that he didn't care.

The only one to suffer was the man she married.—Exchange.

Tells Joke on Herself.

The other morning when Mrs. B——'s new neighbor accompanied her husband to the door as he was about to start on his way to his work, she lovingly called out to him: "Good-by, sweetheart." Soon after Mrs. B—— and their little daughter went to the door with Mr. B——. He kissed the little one and said good-by to Mrs. B——. She, not wishing to be outdone by her happy neighbor, called to Mr. B—— as he was half way down the walk: "Good-by, dear." Mr. B—— turned around so quickly to look back at his wife that he stumbled and with difficulty kept on his feet. "I saw him shaking with suppressed laughter as he went down the street," said the indignant Mrs. B——.—Indianapolis News.

New American Industry.

Establishment of a new Eastern factory with 50,000 square feet of floor space, for the manufacture of artificial pearls from fish scale essence, marks the beginning of a new American industry, formerly dependent on imports from France, Germany and Italy, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The common herring is the base of supply for the iridescent material used, and removing it is an arduous task, because each scale, taken from certain parts of the fish, yields only a tiny speck of luster.

Suction Tube Unloads the Boat.

A big suction tube is used at Oakland, Cal., in the operation of unloading crafts of their cargo of copra. The material is thrown into the hold loose and the end of the tube is thrust down the hold. The material is light and the current of air readily picks it up and carries through the pipe to the bins on the wharf where it is stored. Copra is lighter than cork and comes from tropical countries.

Kid Raising for Gloves.

Before the war the peasants of many a little village made a living by raising kid to supply the gloves for which France has long been famous. The perfection of the skins is considered by the French manufacturers to be the keynote of the perfect gloves. Their method is to have one workman handle the prepared kid from the time it is brought in until the gloves which are shaped from that kid are entirely finished.

Origin of Fireworks.

It may be assumed that we really owe fireworks to the Florentines and Sienese. They began their feasts of St. John the Baptist and the Assumption with wooden edifices, adorned with painted statues, and from the mouth and eyes of which issued a beautiful fire. Dragons, swans, eagles, etc., built on such a large scale as to carry many persons, were also made to emit amusing fireworks.

Latin Words in Our Language.

The Norman-French people who settled England gave to English-speaking people several thousand words with a few alterations. Then, at the Revival of Learning, a still larger number of Latin words came into our language. The Latin word facilis became facile; the word natio appeared as nation; the word opinio as opinion; the verb separatum as separate; and so on with thousands of other words. Ever since that time, new Latin words have been coming yearly into our tongue and settling there.—From "The Art of Writing English."

French Claim to Mont Blanc.

[illegible] of mountains [illegible] it is mainly in France, and that as such it is commonly made from Chamonix and Mont Blanc [illegible] the French department of Haute-Savoie. And the fact that most persons believe them to be in Switzerland annoys the French very much indeed, especially the residents of that region. So there is a campaign on foot now to rebaptize the "department de la Haute-Savoie" and call it "department du Mont Blanc."

His Time Would Come.

Herbert was watching Hazel dress her doll. He wanted her to play with him, and remarked that he didn't like dolls. "Well," replied Hazel, philosophically, "you might just as well learn now, for some day you'll marry and then you'll have to help take care of your children."

Wholesale Joy in Labor.

The joy that comes to us in the knowledge that we can labor, that we can fill a niche in this busy world, is enough to compensate us for the effort. On our ability to labor depends our existence, contentment and happiness.

Was a Mammoth Elephant.

Fossilized bones of a huge elephant recently discovered in France include a tusk weighing 440 pounds and a tooth weighing seventeen pounds. Scientists say that the animal must have stood over thirteen feet high.

Ancient Scottish Yew Tree.

A yew tree in a Scotch graveyard was in 1660 noted as being one of the largest trees in existence. It is still standing, and according to some authorities is over three thousand years old.

Unseemly Temper.

A taxi driver who knocked a man down in Gracechurch street has summoned him for using abusive language. It seems a pity that pedestrians cannot be knocked down without showing their temper like this.—London Punch.

The Fiber of the Hemp.

The hemp or sisal plant, which has been introduced into Florida and thrives on the coral keys, produces leaves fit for cutting in three years and lives 15, needs little care, but must not have any shade.

Anaemia

IS CAUSED BY RUN-DOWN GLANDS, SAY PHYSICIANS

Science tells us that when our glands are healthy our blood is rich and red. But when our glands become worn out our blood becomes weak and watery and we grow thin, pale, anaemic and run-down generally.

Thousands of people are now building up their blood, muscles and nerves by taking Glandex Compound, the highly successful gland and iron tonic. This gets right to the cause of anaemia and run-down condition by recharging the glands. It does this by feeding them with gland extracts from sheep and cattle.

Glandex Compound is also particularly effective in the treatment of premature old age, loss of appetite, vitality, and energy, and nervous diseases. Sold at all druggists, and is guaranteed to bring decided results in a few days or your money back.

KOR-KER is a preservative of rubber. 193-t2-p

In some parts of South Wales the local burial custom is that friends and neighbors of the deceased should take turns in carrying the coffin on their shoulders to the churchyard, no matter how far away. To take part in this kindly act is regarded at once as a privilege to the bearer and as a mark of esteem for the dead and for the bereaved family. The custom itself is reasonably supposed to have arisen from the fact that until recently the roughness of most hill tracks prevented wheeling vehicles from approaching hill farms at all.

KOR-KER stops slow leaks—makes tires non-porus. 193t2p

Almanac an Old Institution.

Almanacs are by no means of recent invention, in fact, there is one in the British museum at present which was issued during the reign of Rameses the Great, and is about 3,000 years old. In those good old days almanacs were worth having. Instead of merely telling you that Monday was the first of April it went on and said that on that day you mustn't start on a journey, or look at a rat or go outdoors before daylight as these things were unlucky. This useful little affair which is written on papyrus, was prepared for a period of four years and contained the dates of all the Egyptian feasts—of which there are a considerable number in each year.

Wealth in Old Stamps.

An old trunk, decayed and crumbling to pieces, discovered by workmen in an attic in Philadelphia, containing nothing but bundles of letters, has been found to be worth a fortune in old stamps. "The man in the street" would never recognize the worth of such a mass of apparent trash, but philatelists say the stamps on such old letters, crude, inartistic little stickers though they are, now are worth a king's ransom. Examination of a few of the letters reveals the fact that the entire collection of correspondence once occupied the files in the law office of one William Morris Meredith, a man of large acquaintance, who received letters from persons in all parts of the country and abroad.

Largest Animal.

Most boys have seen pictures of the huge lizard which roamed the earth millions of year ago, and is supposed to be the largest animal which ever lived. Searchers in Utah have discovered some bones of an animal which was twice the size of this great prehistoric animal. A hole 600 feet long and 80 feet deep had been dug when some one claimed the land. The government thereupon created a national dinosaur monument, comprising the locality, which will be protected until the investigations are finished. The work is being directed by the Carnegie institute, which discovered and assembled the skeleton of the familiar dinosaur.—Boys' Life.

Alas, 'Tis So.

Jud Tunkins says the man who is always most willin' to speak right out in meeting is seldom the one who has anything interesting to say.

Yes, Indeed.

It is too bad that our ancestors did not live long enough to realize how smart we are.—Detroit Journal.

Flowers Express Hope.

There are three flowers which send out the message of hope, remarks the Detroit News. One is the flowering almond and the others are the hawthorn and snowdrop. The flowering almond is a little shrub which grows from two to three feet in height and blooms in May. The color of the flower is a pinkish white. The petals are small and numerous, like the daisy or the chrysanthemum. The hawthorn is generally white, rose colored or sometimes of a crimson. It bears a small fruit with a yellow pulp. The leaf is similar to that of the oak and is cup shaped and spreads as it becomes mature. The hawthorn is often called "May" from the season of blooming in England, and it is also called whitethorn to distinguish it from the sloe, or blackthorn. The snowdrop is so called from the color of the flower. The root of the snowdrop produces two leaves and one single flower, which is bell shaped and hangs like a bell or the Dutchman's breeches.

In orderly Holland, where everything happens by rule, the different classes of society choose different days of the week on which to be married. For some unknown reason Monday is society's day and marriage fees for that day amount to a sum approximate to $24. On Saturdays the charge is $2, or nothing at all if the couple do not wish a separate ceremony, and are willing to join a group of 20 couples. At these group marriages, the clerk reads the service once, all the couples making the responses in chorus.

KOR-KER often gives 50 per cent more mileage. 193-t2p
